To whomever it may concern:

Recently the Highway Department acquired a major part of my Research Boulevard restaurant property for the widening of the highway. I was fortunate to be able to purchase the next door property and set out to build a brand new badly needed parking lot.

To say the least, I was very apprehensive about this, or any other construction project, because of bad experiences in the past caused by people not doing what they say they will do, or when they say they are going to do it, and then find "extras" to inflate the quoted price. I just knew I would be stressed out by much red tape, excuses and non performance, so I spent a couple of months mentally preparing myself for "combat".

This time, however, my luck changed, I have now regained faith that some people are old fashioned and they do what they say. Not only did Heritage General Contractors, owned by Bob Strobo, do what they said they would do, but they did it better, and at least 40% faster than the original estimate. I was impressed by all his subs, and in the coordination of such, and in the amount of time Mr. Strobo personally spent at the job site. If I ever need brain surgery, I hope I can find a doctor who has the same standards as Heritage General Contractors.

Sincerely,

David Kerbow
